17.6.20 Principal Reasons for Rules

Noise

The rural environment is a working environment where noise is generated as part of many rural activities. Rules limit noise problems arising from continuous sources and from residential sources within the zone, but greater freedom is given to the types of noise that arise in normal day-to-day rural activities. For these types of noise, methods other than rules such as codes of practice or the best practicable option approach, will be applied as appropriate.

Building Height

The height of buildings in rural areas is regulated to preserve visual amenities and, coupled with setback requirements, to avoid shading across boundaries.

Setback

Setback from roads will promote road safety and help maintain rural open space. It will also separate dwellings from the adverse effects of road use, such as dust, noise and vibration. Separation between buildings on adjoining sites maintains open space and privacy and minimises shading of neighbouring properties.

The 30-metre setback requirement for habitable buildings has been imposed primarily to manage cross-boundary effects, limit impacts on the productive potential of adjoining sites, and minimise impacts on rural character and amenity.

C60 1/16
Op 6/19

Tasman District has a legacy of small rural sites in the Rural 1 zone that may be constrained in meeting the 30-metre internal boundary setback standard for habitable building due to the shape of the site. In these cases, the mitigation of the effects identified in the preceding paragraph from a reduced internal boundary setback may be achievable through measures such as building location, orientation, design, fencing or screening, as well as clustering of residential activities.

Rules for setbacks to legacy sites below 2500 square metres recognised that the majority of these sites are already built on and used for residential activities; and there is very limited productive opportunity of these small sites. Risks of reverse sensitivity complaints or loss of rural amenity are less likely to arise on sites where residential activities are clustered with other residential activities.

The setbacks for dwellings from quarry activities ensures that the potential adverse effects of present and future quarries on nearby dwellings are avoided, remedied or mitigated, and that any potential reverse sensitivity (for example, where future residents may try to limit quarry activities) is addressed.

Building Setback from Rivers

The setback of buildings from rivers avoids or mitigates the risk to buildings from bank erosion and provides for access in order to maintain channels or bank stability. Setbacks provide a degree of mitigation from flooding. They also provide for open space to maintain natural character and possible public access or recreational use through esplanade reserves or strips.

Setbacks help reduce possible conflicts between river use and adjacent residential or other uses of buildings. The variation in setback from rivers of different widths reflects the varying risks and access requirements.

Setback of Buildings from Lake Margins and Other Zone Boundaries

The setback of buildings from the margins of natural occurring lakes and large impounded lakes, and from the boundary with Open Space, Recreation and Conservation zones provides for open space to retain natural character and possible public access or recreational use through esplanade reserves or strips. The setbacks also help reduce possible conflict between lake use and adjacent residential or other uses of buildings.

Indicative Roads and Reserves

C73 12/20
(D9/22)

The indicative road and reserve networks are a critical element to managing growth within the Tasman District. A planned network provides well-connected and accessible living and business environments. The design and placement of roads and reserves also has the potential to contribute to the level of amenity and character of each area. The building setback requirement protects the future alignment and ability to establish these roads and reserves. In one area (Pohara area between Richmond Road and Falconer Road) the final location of the indicative roads has a degree of uncertainty greater than that which justifies protection of the future transportation corridor through managing building placement. As such, the building setback requirements do not apply in that area. The final location and construction of indicative roads and reserves (and walkways) are managed through the subdivision consenting process in Chapter 16.3. Other rules relevant to indicative roads and reserves can be found in Chapter 28.

Shading Caused by Buildings and Trees

Shading, caused by buildings or trees, is a problem over winter, with buildings or trees casting long shadows to the southwest, south and southeast. The setback from southern boundaries, coupled with the height restrictions, is based on a sun path for June, and avoids shading of neighbouring dwellings between 10.00 am to 3 00 pm.

Trees, located alongside roads can cause shading of roads in winter with consequent problems with icing of the road surface and obvious traffic hazards and road maintenance effects. New shading problems can be avoided by ensuring that new plantings are not located in positions that would impede the access of sunlight to road surfaces in the middle of the day in winter.

Live Shelter and Horticultural Plantings

These rules mitigate shading and crop competition effects and also provide access for tree maintenance, including both root and branch pruning on the owner's property. The setbacks allow for pruning to be undertaken from the property and avoid traffic hazards.

Fire Hazard

Fire hazard controls are applied to all rural buildings, not just dwellings. A 30-metre separation distance between buildings and plantation forests will help to contain a fire in proximity to an isolated rural building. A setback of 50 metres from Residential Zone boundaries is required because of the potentially greater risks in the higher density built-up areas. The rule reflects the firebreak recommendations for exotic forestry in the Waimea Rural Fire Control Policy.

Building and Planting Near Viewpoints

Some viewpoints in rural areas have been identified as amenities of value to the community. It is usually possible to re-site buildings, structures and plantings so that views are not compromised.

Pesticide Discharges

The setback and spray belt requirements will avoid or mitigate adverse effects arising from the drift of pesticides across property boundaries.

Land Fragmentation

The construction of buildings, especially dwellings has been recognised as a contributing factor to fragmentation of land which limits the productive values, including versatility of land. Other activities, such as industry, also have an actual or potential adverse effect on the productive values of the land. Rules are included to mitigate the adverse effects of land fragmentation on the productive values of the land. Rural 2 land, while not being as highly valued or suited to the range of uses as Rural 1 land, still has productive values which the Council wishes to protect. The risks to this land are not as great as to Rural 1 land and the rules reflect this difference.

Small subsidiary units that are dependent on the main dwelling are permitted, whereas consent is required for additional dwellings because of their propensity to contribute to land fragmentation. Cooking facilities are not allowed in these subsidiary units as they can encourage separation and independence from the main dwelling.

Destruction or Removal of Indigenous Forest and Vegetation

Indigenous forest and other indigenous vegetation has intrinsic ecological and biodiversity value. It also adds to the visual character of the District. While much of the upland vegetation of the District is protected in the extensive conservation estate, the lowland forest remnants and coastal vegetation is less well protected and has been identified in Chapter 10 as a priority for protection. Specific locations where there are distinctive indigenous vegetation associations, with some threatened species, are protected. These include indigenous vegetation on largely rocky surfaces of karst formed on limestone, marble, dolomite or magnesite, and frost flat shrublands. Frost flat shrublands containing small-leaved species of Coprosma and Olearia is indigenous vegetation in locations along inland valley floors in the Buller or at higher altitudes elsewhere, where frequent heavy frosts limit larger woody species. Some frost flat species are nationally threatened. The Forests Amendment Act Part 3A provides for the management and some protection of indigenous forest. The rules are interim and may be changed when further studies have been done to identify significant natural areas.

Home Occupations

Rural areas are appropriate for small-scale industrial and commercial activities, which can provide employment opportunities for site occupants and a limited number of employees, with minimal adverse impact on the environment. The rules ensure that permitted activity home occupations can be managed in a way that limits potential adverse effects.

Quarrying

Quarry activities have a range of associated potential adverse effects so the effects of quarries of any size throughout the zone need to be evaluated on a case-by-case basis. However, smaller quarries, provided there are adequate setbacks and management, are permitted.

Papakainga Development

In accordance with the principles of the Treaty of Waitangi and Part II of the Act, provision is made for a degree of self-management of communally-owned Maori land. The flexible style of development provided for is specifically targeted to meet the needs of land held in multiple ownership.

Water Supply

C34 3/12
Op 4/13

Where water reticulation is available, new dwellings will be expected to connect to the service. In Rural and Rural Residential zones, except in locations where a high pressure reticulation is present, new dwellings are required to have access to sufficient stored water for fire protection or install a home sprinkler system for the purpose of fire protection and to install water collection and storage systems to ensure that a minimum potable water supply is available. The potential for adverse landscape and amenity effects of water storage tanks, especially on small sections is acknowledged, however an efficient fire risk management solution can also be provided by home sprinkler systems. Water supplies may include ponds, lakes or rivers with sufficient storage or flow that are not on the same site as the dwelling but are within the required distances.

Industrial and Commercial Activities

The Rural 1 and Rural 2 Zones are generally not appropriate for accepting the potential cumulative effects of business activities, either outside zoned locations for them or where they are more appropriately located in industrial or mixed business zones. This is because the primary purpose of these zones is to support the use of productive land for plant and animal production. Business activity associated with plant and animal production and with efficient locations with capacity and for transport links may be appropriate.

Sleepouts

C60 1/16
Op 6/19

The number of sleepouts on any given property is two sleepouts per principal dwelling and second dwelling, where that second dwelling is not a minor dwelling. Those sleepouts may be located within 20 metres of any dwelling, including any minor dwelling.
